Item No.Q3.7.05: Consultancy Brochure for the University:- University of Kerala at present has only a handful of consultancy works. There is a need to enhance this to promote consultancy activities of the University; a consultancy brochure may be prepared

Decision:It was resolved that University Consultancy Cell may organize a seminar to enhance consultancy efforts, in collaboration with IQAC.

Item No.Q3.7.06: Proposal for offering Psychological Services:- Psychological services to be offered can fall into three main areas, namely, counselling, testing, and training. Psychological counselling would include providing help to a troubled student. Psychological testing would be done on certain psychological variables like intelligence, personality, and other such that would provide an insight to the students. Psychological training would include equipping the students with certain psychological skills that would help them to lead a better and successful life.

The first two services can be provided on a weekly basis, where a psychologist can be made available in the campus. This, if possible, can be done with the cooperation of the Department of Psychology, University of Kerala. Teachers, research scholars, and students of the department can offer these services.

The third service i.e., training can be done on a monthly or semester basis, where the students can be trained on certain psychological skills like interpersonal skills, emotional intelligence, stress management, confidence building etc. For this, external resource persons can be contacted.

Before offering these services, it is necessary that the students be made aware of the importance and need of seeking psychological help. The stigma associated with seeking psychological help need to be eliminated so that the students would make use of the opportunity. For this, psychologists can be brought to the campus to speak to the students. This can be easily done during the induction programmes organized.

Interaction with psychologists can be included in the induction programmes at the university, school, and department levels. During this interaction, it should be communicated to the students about the different psychological services offered and the need for such services. Thus, the whole process can take place broadly in two stages. First is the awareness creation stage, where students are made aware about the need for the psychological services centre and its functions. Second is the psychological service proper, where qualified psychologists are made available for psychological counselling, testing, and training, as per the need.

Decision: Resolved to refer the matter to the HOD, Dept. of Psychology for remarks.
